A FEARFUL LEAP.—At the great fire in St.
Paul last Thursday, two brothers, named Carl and August Mueller, who had a room in the Concert Hall building, were out from an escape by the rapid progress of the flames and smoke. They appeared at the upper-story window, seventy-five or eighty feet from the ground. The St. Paul Pioneer says:—

"The two brothers appeared to hesitate when they appeared at the window, and some of the spectators cried out to them to jump.
The youngest was let out of the window first, the oldest brother holding him by the hand, both being apparently unwilling to part company in that trying moment. Finally the suspended man was drawn back into the building, as though determined to remain instead of taking the horrible risk of such a dreadful leap. An instant after, however, a human form suddenly came through the window, and for a second was suspended in mid-air. The horrid spectators shuddered and turned away their eyes. A dull thud was heard, and the mangled form of one of the two brothers rolled apparently lifeless down the steep de-clivity twenty-five or thirty feet beyond where it first struck, where he lay motionless and groaning. The second brother followed immediately after, and for the second time, within a moment almost, the speechless spectators witnessed the terrible leap. Both brothers were carefully picked up and laid upon beds which were quickly brought, and afterwards placed beneath the grateful shade of a tree that was near by.

"As soon as it was known that two men had taken such a perilous leap the crowd began to surge down the bluff to the point where the men lay, and it was with great difficulty that they could be kept at sufficient distance from the sufferers to give the latter sufficient air. An examination showed how much they were injured.

"Shortly after being picked up they were taken to the residence of their brother-in-law, where a critical examination showed that they had received injuries as follows: Carl has two or three ribs broken on the right side, one of which penetrated through the right lung, making a cavity from which air escapes when he breathes. One side of his face is badly bruised and he is otherwise badly injured. Yet the physicians think, with good cause, he may recover. The younger brother, August, suffered a compound fracture of the wrist and received injury to his spine, besides severe bruises. He is not considered fatally injured."

DEATH OF A FAMOUS BIRD.—The French papers announce the death of Jacko, the famous parrot of the War Office in Paris. Jacko was first brought into the office in 1830 by Marshal Soult, and he remained for forty years at his post unaffected by revolutions or party conflicts. After a time he came to be looked upon as an indispensable appendage to the War Department, and when there was a Cabinet crisis people used to ask who was to get, not the War Office portfolio, but the War Office parrot. Though he served under eighteen different ministers, he always remained consistent to the principles which were instilled into him when he first entered office. Both under the republic and the second empire he remained a staunch Royalist, and there were few members of his party who spoke their minds with so much frankness. One day his repeated cries of "Vive le Roi!" so annoyed Marshal St. Arnaud that he was War Minister that he ordered the indiscreet bird to be turned out. Jacko had a friend, however, in the porter, who took him into his lodge and taught him to add "St. Arnaud" to his cry. The bird was then put into his room, and the Marshal was passing, screamed out:—"Vive le Roi de St. Arnaud!" "A la bonne heure," said the Minister, and Jacko the clerk retaken into favor. Of late years the clerk tried to teach him "Vive l'Empereur!" but he never could bring out the entire sentence without tremendous efforts. He got on very well as far as "Vive l'Empereur," but at this point he seemed to choke, his feathers stood on end, and his eyes rolled with an anxious expression as if he felt his conscience reproaching him.
At last, after several minutes intense struggling, he would jerk out the last syllable—"reur," in a hoarse, sepulchral tone. He died immediately after the Duchess of Berry, and on the anniversary of the death of Napoleon I., three days before the Plebiscite.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO.—A hundred years ago, the 28th of this month, the town of Monterey was founded by the padres from old Spain, and the Society of California Pioneers, and many other citizens will go down the coast in a steamer to participate in the celebration of the anniversary. The old mission of San Diego anniversary. One hundred years ago last June, was founded on the hundred years ago last June, by the pious Father Junipero Serra. Among the military guard who stood by and presented arms when the worthy padre raised the cross aloft for the first time in Alta California on that day, one hundred and one years ago, was Cimon Aviles, a hale young man of twenty-three years, who had enlisted in Spain three years before. To day, away down in Mexican Lower California, a hearty and vigorous old man, in the full possession of his mental faculties, with an eye undimmed and memory un-faded, sits under the orange trees at Todos Santos and tells the story of those brave old days when the lion of Spain was a lion indeed, and sent forth his whelps through all the world, conquering and to conquer. The young soldier, conquering and the old veteran of Todos Santos are one. It has been proposed to bring the old man up here to see the changes that a hundred years have wrought, but it is feared that the journey and excitement might kill him. Would it not be a moment of great interest to walk the streets of the queen city of the Pacific to-day, side by side with a man who walked over its site, then a group of barren sand hills, in the full vigor of his manhood, a hundred years?—California Car. Chicago Tribune.

DRUGS, CHEMICALS, &c.

SWEET QUININE
Is a Recent Improvement.
Replaces the use of the BITTER SULPHATE QUININE, with which all are familiar.
Dose for dose it is WARRANTED

Fully equal in every way to Bitter Quinine, And, like it, is the one Great, Positive and Unfailing CURE for all DISEASES OF MALARIOUS ORIGIN.

Fever and Ague,
Intermittent Fever,
Chill Fever,
Remittent Fever,
Bilious Fever,
Dumb Ague.

and the long train of disorders following these when neglected.

SWEET QUININE
Is made solely from Peruvian Bark (so is Bitter Quinine), therefore it is of Vegetable origin, and not a Mineral Poison, but on the contrary is proved to be one of the elements found in the blood of all healthy persons.

acts as an antidote to, as well as a cure for, malarial or miasmatic poison, the absorption of which by the lungs causes Intermittent Fevers, &c. The only advantage claimed for over the use of old Bitter Quinine is the entire absence of that intense, persistent bitterness, which in the latter is an insurmountable obstacle to its use with most persons, and always with children.

is in two forms—in Powder, for the use of Physicians and Druggists, and in Fluid, for use in the family and for the general public.
